ENGINEERING MINI SKIP LOADER This isn't simply a standard chassis with an off-the-shelf body. The Mini Skip Loader conversion is built by specialist UK bodybuilder SMurph Engineering, who manufacture custom skip-loading vehicles for operators throughout the UK. Their skip-loader systems are designed for applications including household waste, building rubble, industrial waste and scrap metal, with builds tailored to customers' individual operating requirements. The body uses high-tensile steel for strength and optimum carrying capacity, while a fully integrated hydraulic system provides fast, practical operation. IDEAL FOR Skip-hire companies, waste and recycling businesses, builders, landscapers, property-clearance companies, local authorities and businesses that need a compact skip vehicle capable of accessing locations where larger skip wagons can struggle. The combination of the compact Grafter chassis and twin rear wheels makes this an especially attractive option for operators looking for manoeuvrability and stability in a small commercial vehicle.
